

YOUNG TRUSTEE JOB DESCRIPTION:

Position Description and Differences in Formal Responsibilities

The Young Trustee (after his or her first year as an observer) functions in exactly the same capacity as a regular member of the Board. We participate in the same discussions and have the same voting privileges. In contrast to the undergraduate representatives who only participate in committee meetings, the Young Trustee attends the two plenary sessions, the breakfast meetings with the President, and any other smaller sessions that may convene. The other Trustees and the President actively solicit your opinion and take the information you offer seriously. Your presence has a serious influence on the course of discussion inside and outside of formal meetings.
